Transition Coal.

Transition Coal.

This rare and valuable Coal is a variety not quite changed into an anthracite, and it has only been discovered (in large quantities) at three places upon our globe, viz: at South Wales, Great Britain; at Doneta, in Russia, near the Black Sea; and at Dauphin and Lebanon counties, Pennsylvania. In the London market this coal commands the highest price. It is now mined upon the large estate (43,000 acress) of the Dauphin and Susquehanna Coal Company, situated in Pennsylvania, and it is nearer to the cities of Baltimore and Washington than the coal of any other region. For easy ignition, durability of fire, complete combustion, easy adaptation to the temperature of the weather, and its great power in generating heat, it is the nest coal in the world. It has the inflammability of the bituminaus coal, with the cleanliness of the authracite, and a greater durability than either. It burns without making any soot or visible smoke, and the combustion is so complete that it retains the fire until all the coal is consumed. Not so with the anthracites, especially the hard and heavy kinds. They do not burn up, and hence the common troublesome practice of sirting their ashes to obtain more fuel. In burning the Transition Coal there is no weate, for the small coals made by handling, burn as well as ordinary coal. All should be biorned together. If hereened at all the dust only should be taken out.

A very erroneous impression exists with many persons that the heavisit coals are the most e-conomical for ordinary purposes. This might be the case if coals were sold by measurement, but never when they are sold by weight. In Taylor's valuable work, (Statistics of Coal,) the details are given to show that 31 pounds of a free-burning red ashyicided more heat to a room in 15 hours, than 37 pounds of a heavy white ash coal, making the red ash, at 25 50, to be more economical than the white ash at $4 61 per ton. Any person accustomed to the these heavy coals will be astonished at the saying which can be made in burning the lighter kinds, when tested by the weight and burnt in a suitable manner.

Au apprehension exists with some that the free-burning An apprehension exists with some that the free-burning coals have a tendency to clinker. Now, as a general rule, no coal will clinker unless a greater draught be applied to it than the coal naturally requires. No one would think of applying a bellows constantly to a fire made of seasoned hickory or oak wood, and it would be equally as absurd to apply a bleat constantly to a free-burning coal. But the heavy white sah anthractes cannot be burnt without a powerful draft, and without using a larger quantity of coal than the temperature of the weather sometimes requires. Various paterns of stoves, furnaces, cooking ranges, &c., are invented annually to conquer this difficulty, but it has never been done with complete success. In every contrivance, however, which has been invented to burn coal, the transition variety will make a beautiful fire, and no exaplaint will ever be made to a manufacturer or seller of grates or stoves when which has been invented to burn coal, the transition variety will make a beautiful fire, and no complaint will ever be made to a manufacturer or seller of grates or stoves when this coal is used. The draft alone is to be regulated by a damper. In introducing this new coal for the first time, prepared as it now is by steam power machinery for domestic use, it may give greater confidence to the buyer to say that the celebrated free-burning red ash veins in the Peach Orchard district, near Pottsville, are a continuation of the Dauphin veius, and they approach the nearest in value to the Transition coal.

Shipments of the Transition coal have already been made to the District of Columbia, and it can be obtained at retail from the following persons:

Wm. T. Dove, Washington. Woodford Stone, Washington. F. Magrader, do Myers & Baker, Georgetown. Orders for this coal by the cargo, as well as for the semi-bituminous and anthracite coals, mined by the Dauphin and Susquehanna Coal Cempany, will be promptly executed by ADAMS FOSTER, Agent, Office southwest corner Baltimore and South sts.

They show an intimate knowledge of even the most secret springs of human action. It is not a book of mere declamation; the reader will find it profound as well as lively. We noticed the book with approbation on its first appearance, and we rejoice to know that it has already reached its fifth edition.—Northern Christian Adecate.
